

LEADING CHANGE

New model for a different context in 2021

Christine Nixon and Amanda Sinclair

THURSDAY 24, FRIDAY 25 JUNE
TAFE QUEENSLAND, MOOLOOLABA CAMPUS
34 LADY MUSGRAVE DRIVE, MOUNTAIN CREEK

The Alliance for Leadership Learning (in association with TAFE Queensland) presents this two-day workshop, which will be a pivotal experience in your leadership journey as we explore what we can learn from the leadership on display in the new models of popularist leadership.

We will consider how the task of leadership has changed with COVID from more traditional styles and focus towards building cultures of care. This is an important experience for community, public and private sector leaders as well as teams developing their shared approaches to developing a collaborative leadership practice.

This workshop is part of the Executive Challenge Academy's Winter School 2021 program.

CHRISTINE NIXON APM

Christine Nixon shares with her audiences a lifetime of high-level achievement, public profile and the associated pressures of leadership.

As the 19th Chief Commissioner of Victoria Police, she has direct experience of running a highly complex organisation through change, disruption and, at times, extreme circumstances. She was the first woman to become a police commissioner in Australia, leading 14,000 staff and oversaw an annual budget of $1.7 billion.

Christine's workshop leadership comes from a rich career leading and studying crisis management, and in more recent times working with corporates, not-for-profits, universities, police, and health professionals in crisis management.

Truly a woman in leadership, Christine Nixon rose to the top in the male-dominated field of policing and can enthral an audience with her visible compassion, warmth, intelligence and determination.

AMANDA SINCLAIR

Amanda is a widely published author, recognised in academic and corporate circles as a pioneer in diversity and women in leadership and explorer of the application of mindfulness in leadership. After completing her PhD in Political Psychology at the University of Melbourne, Amanda has worked as an academic and consultant, coaching individuals and senior management teams in the government and corporate sectors.

Enjoying a reputation as a challenging and controversial teacher, Amanda has designed and delivered MBA and executive curricula in subjects including Leadership, Change and Organisations, Management and Ethics and Managing Difference. A particular area of interest and expertise is in designing and running leadership development programs for senior women.
